Others in Holland Only Canuck Paratroops May Get to See Berlin

By ROSS MUNRO
WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY, April 14.—(CP)—At the east end of a Canadian Army bridge across the Rhine there is a sign which says: "Get cracking, you're on the road to Berlin."

It is a good admonition to convey drifters to keep rolling fast but it is deceptive.

The only Canadians who stand any chance of getting to Berlin in a link-up with Russian armies are men of the 1st Parachute Brigade of the British 6th Airborne Division, who were last reported fighting in the Manneville area, 130 miles west of Berlin.

Some Canadian formations may eventually operate in the Bremen area, and even go as far east as Hamburg, but that is about all the conquering they will do in Germany.

The liberation of all Holland and clearing of the North Sea coast, possibly including the Frisian Islands, seems to be the task of the Canadians. That is the way the situation appears to be shaping up now in view of the 2nd Army progress eastward.

Sweeping Verdict Motion for Repeal of NRMA Defeated in House 124-9

OTTAWA, April 14.—(CP)—The Commons by a sweeping vote of 124 to 9 last night defeated a motion calling for repeal of the National Resources Mobilization Act and the order-in-council which authorized the sending of home defence troops overseas.

The motion, introduced by Frederick Dawson (Ind.-Charlottesville), and seconded by F. P. Pollock (Ind.-Lemieux), when a bill based on the war appropriation resolution was called for second reading.

Supporting the motion were Mr. Dawson, Mr. Pollock, J. S. Boy (Ind.-Gaspé), Wilfrid Laurier (Ind.-Quebec), Emmanuel D. Poirer (Ind.-Rimouski), Maxime Raymond (BP-Beauséjour-Laprairie), Ernest Choquette (BP-Stanley) and the opposition.

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY, April 14.—(CP)—British troops of the 1st Canadian Army captured the Netherlands city of Arnhem tonight after 40 hours of fighting through barricaded streets.

Infantry of the 49th Division virtually cleared the town.

Only an occasional sniper lurked in the outskirts of the city and the British forces pushed on to slopes north of the town, where British "Red Devil" paratroopers made their base stand last September.

DISENGAGING MOVE
Opposition to the new British thrusts from Arnhem was light and it is possible the Germans may be disengaging to begin a withdrawal to the Gribbe line—An old Netherlands defense system running through Amersfoort 20 miles north of Arnhem.

This would be the next defensive position for the enemy to take in the Holland pocket.

Canadian units pushing west from their base near the bridgehead reached the outskirts of Apeldoorn, 15 miles north of Arnhem.

Other Canadians reached a rail line running southeast from Apeldoorn.

Heavy Fighting Nazis Report Soviets Open Berlin Drive

By ROBERT MUSEL
Karlshorst to the Red Army. LONDON, April 14.—(BUP)—Nazi broadcasts said the Soviet Union had opened a general offensive on a 300-mile front arching across Germany less than 30 miles from Berlin and 80 from the American Third Army.

Soviet forces of the southern front were sweeping across Austria and Moravia in a race with the Nazis for the Bavarian border.

Their pace was speeded by the fall of Vienna and a crossing of the Morava river before dawn.

NO SWEERING—The unwavering purpose that has characterized General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower's direction of the battle for Germany is evident in this latest portrait of the supreme Allied commander. In a message yesterday to President Truman, Gen. Eisenhower, expressing grief and shock over the death of President Roosevelt, pledged his his "unremitting efforts for the achievement of final victory."

Funeral Rites Today Roosevelt Returns in Death To Sorrowing Washington

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP)—Franklin Delano Roosevelt returned in death today to the White House he had graced longer than any other President.

While a whole people paused in grief, a funeral cortege bearing the body of the President drove silently up to the White House door at 5:41 a.m. M.D.

It was the end of a long train trip from Warm Springs, Ga., where President died last Thursday.

Met at the Union station by President Truman and the government's leaders, Mr. Roosevelt's body was borne slowly and mournfully along broad Constitutional avenue on a flag-draped army caisson.

So thick was the swarm of spectators at the station that police said they were unable to get half an hour after the last car had gone.

ALL SERVICE GUARD
The caisson bearing Mr. Roosevelt's body was preceded by a guard of all military services.

In the first car directly behind it were Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt, the second son.

Troops from East and West May Link Up Over Weekend

From CP, AP and BUP Dispatches
ALLIED ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, Germany, April 14.—American and Russian troops advancing on Berlin from the West and the East in co-ordinated offensives may join up some time over the week-end, and official observers at this headquarters state that Berlin may be the scene of street-fighting in the next 48 to 72 hours.

Some reports say that Americans are already clashing with German defenders of Berlin at Brandenburger, 18 miles out of the city, and that Potsdam, another vital defence point for the Nazi capital is under attack. Neither of these reports are officially confirmed, but it is known that units of the Ninth and Third Armies are advancing rapidly, and latest official reports admittedly began 4 hours behind the actual battle line, placed Ninth Army tanks only 35 miles from Berlin.

OUTFLANK LEIFZIG
Thrusts of the Third Army, George S. Patton's Third Army, tank columns are within 25 miles of Dresden and have outflanked Leipzig. These are two of the biggest military gains left to the battered Wehrmacht.

Patton's tank men are now within 70 miles of the Red Army advancing from the East, and have cut across the only escape routes for the German troops trapped behind the Wehrmacht's main line.

The Bavarian mountain re-embankment where Hitler has staked his last hopes will make their "do-or-die" stand.

If they disengage from a mounting Russian offensive, they will have to run the gauntlet of Patton's U.S. Third Army and the British Second Army.

Britons Mourn War Situation Bans Churchill's Trip to Funeral

By PHIL AULT
Karlshorst to the Red Army. LONDON, April 14.—(BUP)—British troops today began mourning the death of President Roosevelt and a mounting tension in the press that the formal end of the war in Europe might come at any time.

Prime Minister Churchill was considered as persuaded by the possible imminence of great victory to cancel the preparation of a plane and leave for the last time to come to the United States for Mr. Roosevelt's funeral.

Declared V-E Day Won't See Fighting's End

The south centred upon the "national industry" of Naziism—the highway of mountainous southern Germany and northern Austria between Lake Constance and Berchtesgaden.

POCKET MAY SPILT

The are in the north would probably break into more than one pocket, particularly if the Allies in the west continue their wedge to west Hamburg and Luebeck. It would mean there would be the Berlin arc to clear out, the northern ports, the flooded forests of Western Holland—perhaps eventually even Denmark and Norway. The farthest and best naturally guarded of these three—Norway—and the heart of the southern Germany—would might take months to clean out, especially if the war would end on past fall and into winter when snows come in the mountain passes and the forms on the mountain roads.

The situation created is virtually without military precedent—people battle and unable to quit, a power divided and unwilling to surrender, and the prospect of one side eventually having to advance to the other.

"CELEBRATIONAL" DAY

Just when after this decade-reckoning is finally pushed to its last pockets, the Allied victory proclamation will come and will depend upon the extent of the breakdown of the German fighting force. But it is conceivable—indeed probable—that when it is proclaimed the Germans might still have at least a nominal army in the field. Perhaps two—one in Norway and one in the national redoubt.

If that was the case, there might come a "celebrational" Victory Day, and after that the war would end on time as "aggressive occupation" of additional parts of Germany and the liberation of the last of German-occupied territory.

Stage Now Set For Prorogation Of Parliament

gamble—a gamble on the ability of private enterprise to meet the need of the Canadian people. John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) suggested that a national committee of representatives of business and labor organizations be set up to assist in proposing to the government national policies to advance the best interests of the nation in the post-war period.

PASS APPROPRIATIONS

The speeches came shortly before the house passed the war appropriations bill, which was read a second time. The bill was passed on the condition that debate on any subject should be continued during examination of the bill.

Earlier Prime Minister Mackenzie King said that the opposition parties appeared to be in agreement that the bill should be passed without delay, and that the prorogation should take place Monday.

The life of parliament ended at midnight Monday.

During the days' discussions Ministers Minister Howland declared:

1. That if the government is returned to office he would recommend the establishment of a maritime commission to handle every phase of shipping and shipbuilding in the post-war.

2. Government shipyards were emergency yards built for emergency conditions and would be returned to anyone who thought they could run them profitably after the war.

3. With the end of the war in Europe increased gasoline and the supplies likely would be made available to civilian uses.

4. The amount recovered through negotiation of war claims amounted to about $250,000,000.

Mr. Colwell said he did not believe the government was recommending to place on it the post-war reconstruction of the country.

"This white paper states clearly that if $60,000 new jobs do not materialize, the government will then resort to public enterprise and industrial control," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it was interesting to note that "while there are those who say that we must accept the socialist concept in its entirety, in the United States the American Federation of Labor and the CIO accept the concept, but do not demand the continuance of a system of private enterprise."

GREAT RESPONSIBILITY "Private industry must realize today that in the post-war reconstruction period a responsibility rests upon the captains of industry that never, heretofore, rested upon them."

In reply to Howard Green (PC-Vancouver South) and Angus Macdonald (CPC-Vancouver East), Mr. King said:

"I am glad to hear that the British will be able to get on with the war as it is the beginning of the life of the nation."

"The British have a great deal of money and capital that should be obtained through the government-owned industrial bank."

"The British have a great deal of money and capital that should be obtained through the government-owned industrial bank."

U.S. Third Army, so far, has not made rapid advance, Patton's men are meeting only the slightest resistance from the units which are fighting only local engagements and which appear to have no cohesive command.

BETWEEN TWO FIRES

Should they attempt to disengage from the Russians their retreat would easily become a disaster. The British and the greatest disaster yet to overwhelm the German army would be the advance of the Americans who are now in the area through which the retreat must pass.

The decision to fight out with the Russians they must protect their rear against the Americans, and their situation here is also untenable, as they will then be caught between two fires.

Infantry units of the U.S. 9th Army are now across the Elbe in force, having up to 100 miles of the area where the tanks are engaging the Berlin defense.

Radio reports from the air and while admitting solemnly that the enemy is now at a great disadvantage, the situation in the west is hourly becoming more and more critical.

The progress of the battle.

At Supreme Allied Headquarters in London, it was reported that the Americans have entered Berlin and have effected a junction with the Russians.

There were no new developments early in the day, but the situation in the west is hourly becoming more and more critical.

Polish armored units, fighting under the Canadian Army banner, rolled up another multi-mile gain into the outskirts of Grolingen, former Nazi paratroop centre, 34 miles north of Berlin.

Mitchell Says: Plan More Thorough Probe Of Deferred Farm Workers

OTTAWA, April 14.—(CP)—More intensive investigation of farm workers on postmortem from military training will be made this year, Labor Minister Mitchell said last night in a prepared statement.

"The purpose of this check which will be made in co-operation with provincial agricultural authorities is to make sure that a maximum contribution to agriculture is being made by these workers," he said.

"We have often found that a number of these men could be much better employed on more highly productive farms than those on which they were located."

MORE FOOD NEEDED
The United Nations might be confronted with millions of starving people in Europe before the end of the year unless the North American continent took responsibility.

Major and Minor Notes

TRANSCENDING all other matters in the Edmonton musical firmament this week have been the termination of the 1944-45 Celebrity Concert Series sponsored by the Women's Musical Club, and the announcement of the artists comprising the 1945-46 series. Whenever music lovers and devotees have congregated to hear the series, they inevitably have veered to the celebrity concerts.

Students and others from the city would be encouraged to help on the farms.

TORONTO, April 14.—(CP)—One minute's silence will be observed on all Canadian Press news wires today at 4 p.m. EDT (3 p.m. MDT) when funeral services for President Roosevelt will begin in Washington.

which goes into the memory book as one of the finest of the series. There is anticipation everywhere as prospective attendees contemplate the pleasure of top-flight vocal and instrumental music they will hear commencing with the first concert in October when the small but mighty Serge Jaroff will bring out the stage and the Don Cosacko ride to another triumph.

Apart from their great artistry, the appreciation of which was amply demonstrated by the capacity audience, Pierre Labouchette and Genia Nemtsoff who conclude this year's series and left every body wishing for more, seemed heavily with Edmontonians whose good fortune it was to meet them, they captivated by personality as they did with artistry.

Possessed of an unusually fine sense of humor, they enjoyed meeting the friends, and recounting experiences of various recitals and tours. They were highly slated with their reception here. Mr. Labouchette said the audience was one of the most appreciative they had ever met. He said that the Vivaldi-Bach Concerto in A Minor which they played always served as a test-piece for musical appreciation. He said that when they played the Adagio, or second movement, he felt intuitively that the audience response was of the highest order.

Commenting on the performance he said the thought passed through his mind, "Ah! here is a genuinely musical audience that really appreciates the best in music." Against further test was the recital given the last encore, the Bach suite. They would they play back the last encore. Under such circumstances there is always a stir with some persons having left, and others getting ready to leave. But there was absolute quiet throughout the playing of the whole number. "You

Fear Confusion May Be Caused In Ont. Voting

By CHESTER BLOOM
Edmonton Bulletin Bureau

OTTAWA, April 14.—(CP)—Prime Minister King's announcement to the House of Commons that the Dominion election date at June 11 is final, and that the Ontario election, will make the third time a federal and a provincial election will be held on the same day.

The first time was September 17, 1927, when a Nova Scotia and federal election were held simultaneously.

The second instance was June 20, 1928, when Nova Scotia and the Dominion held simultaneous elections.

Some Ontario politicians are expressing fears that confusion may result among the voters on this occasion. However, the vote by expanded electorate during the last 28 years.

Boundaries of federal and provincial ridings do not coincide at any point out, and this may cause special trouble in big cities and in industrial centers.

Julia Castangay, federal election officer, says a provincial and federal poll may be held in the same building under the Federal Act, but not on the same day. One might be in the kitchen and the other in a front room. For example, The Dominion pays $10 for the use of a booth, and the provincial $8. For the same reason, federal ballots will be virtually identical, save for the name, while Dominion election posters will be printed on yellow paper and provincial on white.

The Prime Minister's announcement to the house was followed by exchanges between Mr. King and Gordon Graydon, house leader of the Progressive Conservatives, which some points approached publicity.

Mr. King prefaced his announcement by saying that it might assist the members in arriving at a decision to be made on the business of the house if he informed them at once that the Government had authorized him to say that he was willing to approve immediately a dissolution, should the house so decide.

After the house concluded its business, Mr. Graydon said that prior to the present session, he had said that the election date would be announced before dissolution of the house fixed by the BNA Act for April 1956. Therefore, he would say that Hon. Excellence was willing to approve immediately a dissolution, should the house so decide.

Mr. Graydon said the opposition had been hoping for a long time the government would come down enough courage to finally face the voters. The Progressive Conservatives welcomed it because they were ready and willing, and prepared to form the next government.

He said the government benches gave a loud unified and hearty hurrah.

Mr. Graydon returned by saying the Prime Minister's problem would not be solved by Mr. Bracken, the Progressive Conservative leader, but the house instead of setting him in.

LITTLE "SATISFACTION"
The Prime Minister went on to say that he wished Mr. Graydon could have been on the government benches at the time of the announcement when the election date was announced. The Prime Minister said he had had the attention of his colleagues to the demeanor of the Progressive Conservatives, and that he was receiving an announcement with any satisfaction at all.

The Hon. Hume Brown, L. E. Cardiff rose to protest, and claimed he was a Progressive Conservative who had been applauding while he noted the gloomy looks on the government benches.

Mr. Graydon said he wondered why the Prime Minister had a mirror in front of him.

Both M. J. O'Brien, CCF leader, and John Blackmore, Social Credit house leader, declared they welcomed the election date. Mr. O'Brien said it was no time for the booting, the government after the coming election will be in the position to face to face the government now in office. It was his belief that this session had, and men called earlier to deal with the mass of business still before it, a point also touched on by Mr. Graydon.

SOCIAL CREDITERS READY
Mr. Blackmore said the Social Crediters were ready to meet the prime minister and all parties anywhere any time.

In making his announcement, Prime Minister King recalled that on Monday, April 8, he had issued a statement from the electoral officer which showed that the earliest possible date on which an election could be called by dissolution set for Monday, April 16, would be June 11.

From Friday, April 13 is a date which both sides are claiming as significant to their supporters. To June 11, leaves 38 clear days. If the writs are not issued till Monday, the period between issuance of the writs and election day will be 36 days.

Mr. King said the electoral officer had assured him that the arrangements could be made in time for taking the poll.

Tired, War-Worn Weariness of F.D.R. Noted At Last Formal Appearance

By C. R. BLACKBURN
WASHINGTON, April 14.—(CP)—President Roosevelt's last formal public appearance in Washington was in the company of Canada's governor-general, the Earl of Athlone, and the Princess Alice.

That was March 24, when the President and Mrs. Roosevelt drove to say farewell to their excellencies at Union station after their visit to the White House.

At the sitting where the governor-general and his wife were waiting they chatted gaily and the President's flashing smile lightened the normal pale and lined faces of weary reporters had become accustomed to.

When the procession arrived back at the White House south porch, we who were in the crowd felt that this was the last night of the President's final, war-worn, afflicted man returning the affairs of his country during the most critical and momentous years of his history.

respondents' car were waiting for a moment that the President's car continued past that point.

Then we saw that the President was going to enter by the ramp leading from the garden to the Oval Office in the executive wing.

At 10:05, the President's car, a white sedan, which was pushed up the gravel path in the ramp.

Post-War Church Planning Gathers Momentum In Europe

Plans for post-war church building in the United States and Europe have been speeded at V-E Day draw near.

Anticipating brick building activity by religious groups, the Rev. R. M. Conner, director of the Interdenominational Bureau of Architecture, urged that church funds now with all possible speed so that hampering church debts may be prevented.

He pointed out that for years general church building funds of Protestant denominations have been used largely to save churches from financial ruin in situations brought about by poorly-managed church building ventures. Denominational leaders, he said, should insist that from now on church building funds be used only for needed projects, particularly in un-church communities and for replacement of inadequate and out-moded buildings.

It is generally believed by experts that new post-war church buildings will show no startling architectural innovations but will be planned rather from a utility view point with recreational activities for members in mind.

An example of a possible future trend in the building program announced by the Presbyterian church of Moose, Ind.

12-ACRE SITE

The church has purchased a 12-acre site on which buildings, including a main sanctuary, a religious education building, and a children's chapel, will be constructed after the war.

The church site includes three acres of woodland, where social cabins will be built, a natural amphitheatre for outdoor meetings and concerts, playgrounds, and woodland picnic grounds.

The problem of church rebuilding in Europe becomes increasingly urgent as the extent of damage and destruction becomes known. It was reported this week from Paris that 1,000 churches were destroyed in France between 1939 and 1945, and that the district of Aveyron is the only area where church property escaped damage.

More than 15,000 French churches have already been distributed to meet urgent church needs in 45 devastated districts. The money was paid by agencies set up after the war to help rebuild parish life in war-torn areas.

UNITED STATES HELP

Donations for church relief have been sent from many churches in the United States, but the amount collected is said to represent only a fraction of the need. In the dioceses of Carthage and Tunis alone, church losses are estimated at nearly a billion francs.

Twenty-three Roman Catholic churches in the Paris archdiocese alone must be reconstructed "as new," according to reports submitted to the national committee for reconstruction.

The World Council of Churches with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland, is meeting in immediate readiness to provide barracks to serve as temporary headquarters for displaced French churches. Funds from American and Swiss churches have made these plans possible, but Swedish churches also plan to provide buildings.

The World Council, meanwhile, is surveying the needs of churches in China, India, and the Philippines and has provided aid to help church activity resume on a minimum basis.

AID WITH SALARIES

Funds from American and Swiss churches have made it possible to meet the needs of churches in the United States, but the amount collected is said to represent only a fraction of the need. In the dioceses of Carthage and Tunis alone, church losses are estimated at nearly a billion francs.

Small Nations

Small Nations. The charter should safeguard the economic and political rights of small nations, assure them an adequate share in shaping the policies of the organization.

Disarmament. The charter should provide a clear purpose and procedure for the limitation and control of national armaments, as a collective security of established.

Human Rights. The charter should provide an international bill of rights, and provide for a commission or committee to protect and further the rights and liberties of the individual and of racial, religious and cultural groups, especially those grouped by war of aggression.

Dependent Peoples. The charter should provide for a commission to supervise the administration of mandated territories and to promote the advancement of non-dominant peoples toward economic well-being, cultural development and political responsibility.

Bible Society

Sets New Record

The American Bible Society distributed 12,485,514 copies of Scriptures during 1944, the largest annual distribution in 129 years, it was reported by new figures.

Only three times in the Society's history has the scriptures' distribution topped the ten million mark. In 1897, 1929, and 1939.

It was reported that the distribution of 825,857 complete Bibles last year was due to the demand from Army and Navy and increased circulation in Latin American countries.

In addition to complete Bibles, the society distributed 888,986 complete and other portions of the Bible and 2,535,934 New Testaments.

Missionaries Plan To Remain at Posts

A number of Protestant missionaries who were released from Japanese internment camps in the Philippines will remain to carry on mission work until fresh appointees arrive from the United States.

According to Dr. J. L. Hooper, of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, four Presbyterian missionaries have elected to stay. They are Miss Ruth Swanson and Miss Frances Rogers who will do church visitation work in Manila; the Rev. H. H. Bowman, pastor of Ellwood Presbyterian Church in South Manila; and K. Frie of Manila, treasurer of the Presbyterian mission.

The Rev. E. F. Gulbranson, chairman of the Philippine work of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, also plans to carry on until he can be relieved by fresh recruits and the Alliance missionary staff members. According to word received from Gulbranson, he will return to Mindanao as soon as possible to begin rehabilitation work of his group. Alliance headquarters is at Iloilo, Philippines, both for Mr. Gulbranson's support and for reconstruction work.

The Methodist Church reports that Miss Ellen Rowland, M.A. Miss Betty Lettmore, Miss Gertrude Blair, and the Rev. Francis W. Blair will continue to remain in the Philippines for a short time at present.

The Rev. and Mrs. William H. Fonger, representatives of the American Bible Society also will probably remain.

A Slave to Sin

The leaders in Israel in Christ's day were slaves to sin—the sin of unbelief. They would not believe in Christ and therefore they could not believe in Him. They thought that they were the slaves of the sin of sin, the sin of unbelief.

THE LATE FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

AMERICAN soldiers know President Franklin D. Roosevelt best as their Commander-in-Chief. His courage, leadership, and sacrifice have been an inspiration to members of the armed forces ever since they were called to the colors. The President's regard for the servicemen is well-known. Through his experienced leadership American forces have been victorious on land, sea and in the air. He chose able leaders to assist him in building a tremendous Army, Navy and Airforce. While he was concerned with broad plans of policy, yet the needs of the individual soldier did not escape his attention. The G.I. Bill of Rights gave them a sense of security in the Post-War World. Never before in the history of the United States has so much been done for the fighting man in uniform.

Ours has been a fortunate nation in its character and quality of leadership. As a people we are not as in our gratitude and praise of our great men after they are dead and gone. We deeply revere our leaders of bygone days and volumes are written and eagerly read which recount the stories of their lives and achievements. Men like Washington, Lincoln, Wilson and Roosevelt have done much to make our country great. They have all made remarkable sacrifices for their country. One of our enlisted men said this morning, "Roosevelt died as a true soldier in every sense of the word."

A truly great leader is noted for his refusal to compromise. Our leader must have been tempted for an easy peace, but he knew that the world could not long endure when ideals and truth were compromise for the sake of ease and comfort. Probably, no President in the history of our country had so great a social responsibility as did Mr. Roosevelt. His untiring efforts in this field are known the world around. His greatness was accredited to his honor, character, culture, stamina, resourcefulness, marked abilities, and A DEVOUT FAITH IN GOD.

The President met with many obstacles in his day. And in the midst of all his adventures his courage never failed and his purpose never weakened. LOYALTY to his idealism in this imperfect world requires vision, courage, patience, and suffering. Certainly we shall miss him, but we can do him honor best by marching forward and try to do our share in making this world a world of peace and justice for all mankind.

U.S. Churchmen Make Italy Visit

Scattered groups of Italian Protestants in central Italy, bombed out of their churches and homes, were brought promises of help by three American churchmen—the Rev. P. J. Zaccaria of the New York Mission Society, Dr. Robert W. Anthony of the Federal Council of Churches, and Dr. Dewey Moore of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Places visited by the trio in the Lazio and Umbria provinces included Terni, birthplace of the Roman historian Tacitus, and now Italy's "second Casablanca" where 80 per cent of the homes were destroyed or damaged by American bombers. Terni once had five Protestant churches, but no longer has any Protestant minister or a meeting place.

The Americans' arrival in Terni appeared quickly, however, and Christ's words, "Where two or three are gathered in my name there am I," never seemed truer.

Local Protestants referred to the unexpected visit of the Americans as being more than that of good Samaritans. "It was the Lord Himself," said one of the group.

Inspection of Terni's ruins revealed to the U.S. church leaders that Protestants there cannot hope to resume church life in the near future, without help from sister churches. One chapel was completely razed, and others were badly damaged.

Friendship Book For U.S. Children

Children of the Streamline Hill Congregational Sunday School in London have prepared "A Book of Friendship," designed for children of American Sunday schools as a contribution to international friendship.

The volume, providing an interesting survey of Britain as seen through the eyes of 30 to 40-year-old children, is leather-bound with a handsomely embroidered cover. Each page shows a picture with appropriate text and original comment by one of the children. The pictures illustrate the life of wartime Britain, and include many scenes of Anglo-American interest.

Books for other parts of the world are being prepared.

MONTREAL Canadiens were easily the class of the NHL teams which he saw during the past season, is the opinion of Leroy Goldsworthy. The former big time hockey player, however, says he did not see Toronto Maple Leafs perform even in a single game.

Home again after a winter spent in Baltimore as manager and coach of the Orioles in the East U.S. Amateur League, Goldsworthy thinks the club has "away too much power," as compared with the others he viewed. "Lach was his choice of the Montrealers, even over Richard," he said. "I saw him in two games and seemed to think the big right winger may have been a little off both times, 'never hit out of at least 10 shots, he never hit the net even once'."

Richard is "just like a cat... he jumps him almost and he'll be in there." But Maurice does not rate in Goldsworthy's book with players like Roy Ales or Bill Cook.

ORIOLES YOUNGEST CLUB

ORIOLES were the youngest club in the league, but they were the greatest, passing club I ever saw... they could really throw a stick around. They played 40 games, finished second to the Boston Olympics but had several blunders, both in the regular schedule and in the post-season playoffs. Goldsworthy completely missed that good story circulated early in the season to the effect Eddie Green had suspended the Orioles for giving a stick away. "Nothing to it whatever, there never was a suspension," he said.

Wings Hold Final Workout

In Preparing to Stop Leafs

TORONTO, April 14 (CP)—Detroit Red Wings, trailing three games, in the Stanley Cup hockey final, Toronto Maple Leafs, are behind the well-known eight ball—they know it and Leafs know it.

The Wings Friday turned out in force for a spirited workout in preparation for tonight's fourth and final game of the Stanley Cup hockey final. The Wings, who registered shutout victories in their first three games and need only one more to capture the trophy, held a light workout attended by only a few players.

Police said the Sunday night 14 set-back, Detroit officials expressed optimism in silence. Any slip-ups and traffic jams are in order, planned in an effort to alter the situation. Leafs' Manager, who registered shutout victories in their first three games and need only one more to capture the trophy, held a light workout attended by only a few players.

But Gerry Couture, 19-year-old forward of Saskatchewan, stated that he and his teammates are in good luck. Thursday night's battle is not expected to appear. Couture is scheduled to play in the final game of the Memorial Cup final, against Toronto Maple Leafs, on Saturday afternoon.

Leaf officials were more talkative. "If we come out running, we'll be alright," said one of them. "Synthetics of Leafs said. 'But we'll have to be hit to do it.'"

Practices were fairly evenly divided. "We've had a lot of practice," said one of them. "We've had a lot of practice," said one of them. "We've had a lot of practice," said one of them.

Detroit Tigers Lack Attack

Only Few Breathing Spaces For Newhouse, Trout in '45

By AL VERMEER

NEW YORK, April 14.—When the American League race came to an end last autumn, Hal Newhouse and Paul Trout scurried home, tucked off their shoes and plunked their weary selves on the sofa.

To say it in their own words, they were coked. For a good reason, too. They had been on and out, stacking up a combined total of 56 victories, pitching almost half of the season's games. And all their record-making efforts had gone for naught. For on the final day of the season the Browns had broken the deadlock to win the championship by the wide margin.

This spring south Newhouse and Dizzy Trout reported to the Detroit Tigers, the shortstop and pitcher, respectively, and ready for another drive, but neither believed he would again approach the remarkable figures of 1944. When Newhouse was 26, Trout 27.

"When this war is over, I'll be an awful lot of better," new recruits will be built just as fast as the old ones, he said. "I'll be an awful lot of better," new recruits will be built just as fast as the old ones, he said. "I'll be an awful lot of better," new recruits will be built just as fast as the old ones, he said.

The replacements to which the homegrown Newhouse referred were Big Al Berens, discharged by the Navy, southpaw Stubby Overmire, and another pitcher, Dick Groat, again an improved Ruffin Granger. Walter Wilson, an 18-year winner in the minors, and two new recruits, Les Mueller and Bob Gillespie.

Despite their optimism, it appears the staff again will be a disappointment. The Detroit last outfielder Dick Waderfelt to the Army, third baseman Finky Higgins to the Navy.

This practically leaves Rudy York all by himself as the club's power batsman. Detroit will not score as heavily this year as it did last, but it will get by on its pitching. The Detroit last outfielder Dick Waderfelt to the Army, third baseman Finky Higgins to the Navy.

Canucks Play St. Mike's Battle for Junior Crown

Opens Today at Toronto

TORONTO, April 14 (CP)—Moore Jay Canucks and Toronto St. Michael's Majors, who meet today in the first game of the best-of-seven series for the Memorial Cup and Canadian junior hockey championship, have many things in common.

The teams—Canucks from the west and Majors from the east—are both coached by men of wide hockey experience. Roy Bentley, Moore Jay mastermind, has been around Canadian senior and amateur hockey circles for more than 20 years both as a player and coach. A native of Saskatchewan, he broke into organized hockey at Delisle, Sask., still named as the hometown of the National Hockey League's Bentley—Max, Doug and Reg of Chicago Black Hawks.

Last year he led a team that included four of his brothers and last year's Cup runner-up, the Regina Capitals, which captured the Stanley Cup in 1932. Since he left Bentley has coached St. Michael's, and he has coached another St. Michael's team, the St. Michael's Majors, which captured the Stanley Cup in 1932. MacDiarmid Only Fighter To Post Kayo

The city schools' three-day 1945 boxing and wrestling tournament wound up Friday night with probably the best card in the four year history of the event. From a packed house of over 3,000 fans at the Westgate gym.

A third round knockout by the experienced John MacDiarmid, high school middleweight champion from Victoria, and technical knockout by Doug Swall, second in a row—intermediate middleweight titleholder from Oliver, highlighted the elementary paperweight championship bout. Three other flouting matches killed for last night, with by default. Seven wrestling finals were held, prior to the boxing, and four-time mat session went by default.

The knockout—only one of the big tournaments—was by Alex Romanuk, a wrestling champion from Westgate, who counted late in the third after taking a lot of punishment from the smotherworking MacDiarmid. Romanuk was down for a count of eight in the third, but got back and gamely to make an exciting bout of an otherwise one-sided affair.

The Gordon Wilson-Doug Swall intermediate middleweight bout, which resulted in a third round technical knockout to Swall, was one of the most exciting with flaring bouts of the night. Both started fast, as well as plenty of scientific boxing for two rounds. Swall was the victor, but Spruce Avenue weakened in the higher rounds.

David Anderson gained his TKO by stopping Oscar Sauter, 194, which resulted in the second round. After both fighters had put on a real battle in the first round, the judges, was good in his opinion. Today's Sport Parade

NEW YORK, April 14. — (BUP) — Although no definite decision has been reached, the major leagues may use the off days usually set aside for the all-star game to raise money for various war charities this year, with a series of inter-league contests, the British United Press learned Friday.

The all-star contest was cancelled this year as the major leagues in baseball's voluntary program to curtail travel 25 per cent because of the critical transportation shortage.

So on July 9, 10, and 11 all but two of the 16 major league clubs will have nothing to do. The two that are busy, the New York Giants and Yankees, will meet in a Red Cross benefit game in New York. The Giants-Brooklyn and the Yankees-Boston slugs have played benefit games for that organization.

Last year each of the 16 clubs designated one of their home games for the National War Fund, with all receipts going to that agency, which in turn distributed it in various relief organizations.

WHETHER the same program will be followed this year with an additional July contest game may be decided at Cleveland April 24 if the two contests don't line up long to get together on a new baseball commissioner. The matter at least will come up for discussion, if not a decision, at that time.

Thus far baseball has been so busy in raising in the amount of money raised for charity since Pearl Harbor. The game is anxious to improve on that record if it can be done without hampering the war effort. And the chances are that it can.

The extra games would be the Cardinals and Browns meet in St. Louis on one of these off days, the Cubs and White Sox at Chicago, the Red Sox and Braves at Boston and the Phillies and Athletics in Philadelphia. To augment that natural rivalry, Detroit and Cleveland could be matched, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati could get together, with Washington meeting the Yankees and the Dodgers playing the Giants.

BECAUSE of the three off days, most clubs probably will be at TORONTO, April 14. — (CP) — The fact that Montreal Bruns, the Maritime junior champions, were not permitted to enter into the Memorial Cup playoffs didn't rub Ben "Nagard" Falt's nose. Gwynedd the right way. The New Brunswick team apparently was prevented from entering the series because it was slow in securing the $2,000 demanded by the CAHA in order to ensure the coverage of a series in the Maritimes.

Bill contends that with the huge surplus the amateur governing body has, some of the money could have been put to good use to help a striving team cover expenses. True, hockey expenditures are great and the receipts are slim, and instead of some generous individual supplying the necessary cash or a group of interested citizens raising the money, the CAHA offers could be dug in case like this.

The whole affair was slightly different in view of the fact that Montreal had a senior squad in the early '30s that won two Allan Cup finals. Since clubs competing in these series get nothing but expenses, it is a safe bet that the two Allan Cup-winning Montreal teams helped swell the CAHA account that is said to run close to $100,000.

THE MIRACLE OF WARTIME PRODUCTION IN ALBERTA

226,570,260 POUNDS OF DAIRY PRODUCTS

BUTTER and CHEESE

1939 TO 1945

Alberta's dairy industry has gone to war too, and since 1939 it has responded to constantly increasing demands by almost doubling its value its production. This production effort has done much to maintain the vital supply stream of butter, cheese and dehydrated milk to our fighting fronts and our allies, while still providing an adequate—but necessarily limited—level of supply at home.

Part of this production victory must be credited to Alberta Farmers' forward-looking policy of building high-production herds of proved breeding. On Alberta farms are some of the finest herds in America. This augurs well, not only for the successful prosecution of the food production battle, but for a bright future for the dairy industry in Alberta.

Five copies of a booklet containing the entire series of informative data on Alberta's Wartime Production may be obtained at the conclusion of the schedule. Please send in your name to Calgary Brewing & Malting Co. Ltd., Calgary.

Do a Little Each Day To Spade the Easy Way

Many gardeners are ready to assume the burden of a garden except for the first step, which is spading the garden. They prefer to wait for a plowman who may come, and let the best time to prepare the soil slip by, rather than undertake this work themselves.

And in the end even if they let their garden plans plow, they may have as much work in putting the soil in shape as if they had spaded in the beginning. Because small garden plots cannot be effectively

When it is tedious to turn, it will benefit the garden. Pieces of wood stumps, and all other foreign matter should be removed from the soil.

Systematic spading makes the job easier, and more complete. Here is one way to do it. Set a definite task for your first day's work. Spade a strip six feet wide, running the shortest dimension of the garden. At one end dig a ditch, say one foot wide and the depth of the spade, removing all soil from it. This should run the opposite end of the row.

Now begin to spade with the blade on parallel to the trench, but at right angles to it. This one stroke will lift the soil more easily, and deposit it in the trench. The second stroke is driven down on an angle, but perpendicular to the first ditch. Take a small slice of the soil on your back, and then, as you turn, turn the soil over, so that the top and bottom are mixed.

In filling the first trench, you have opened a second.

If you wish to spade under the more, proceed it easily over the first trench, except for the top of your initial trench. When this trench has been dug, clear the surface from the top of the next trench and then it goes into the bottom of the first, then proceed with your spade, plowing the soil on top of the trench.

When you have finished your first trench, you will have a small trench, which should be filled with the soil you removed from the initial trench.

It is important not to work soil when it is too wet. A ball of earth in your hand, and put it to make a mud pie. If the pile holds together, the soil is too wet to spade. If it crumbles, then you can work it.

Chambers was given a pension by King Edward III.

CHICKEN POWER

"JIMMINIE fishhooks!" growled the Dunce. He threw his Teenie Weenie hoe onto the ground and sat down on a pebble. "Breaking up this garden soil with a hoe is tough work."

"Yes, sah, sho is!" answered Gogo, as he wiped a Teenie Weenie drop of sweat from his forehead. "But we all got to eat, and if we eat we got to plant a garden."

"Wish we could break up the ground the way big folks do," grumbled the Dunce. "They drag the earth with a harrow and that's easier than all this hand diggin'."

The Dunce stared mournfully at the ground for a time, then he jumped to his feet with a shout. "I have it! Let's build a harrow and make that lazy chicken pull it. He does nothing but run around and eat bugs, and he might just as well do some work for us."

Gogo fell in with the idea, and the two little chaps set to work immediately. They cut some twigs and nailed them together into a sort of openwork sled. Then they drove tiny nails through the twigs to act as sharp teeth to break up lumps in the earth when the harrow was dragged over the garden spot. Next, they made a sort of harness out of string to hitch the chicken to the harrow. Then they rolled several pebbles, a couple of screws and a heavy iron bolt nut onto the harrow to weight it down.

After much trouble, the two Teenie Weenies caught the young chicken which the little people had hatched from an egg. They put the string harness onto it and hitched it to the harrow. The hardest part of the work was in keeping the chicken on the garden spot, for it was continually dashing off after any bugs that chanced to fly by, upsetting the harrow and causing no end of trouble.

Finally, the Dunce decided that he could keep the chicken from running after bugs if he sat on its back and guided it. He climbed onto the chicken's back and the work went on nicely until a most tasty bug flew by. The chicken ran after it until the harrow struck a large pebble. That brought the chicken to a sudden stop and the Dunce was tossed high into the air. He came down on his Teenie Weenie head, but he said he wasn't hurt. Then he discovered his nose was bleeding, and he began to bawl.

Several Teenie Weenies came running when they heard the Dunce bellowing. They soon laughed him out of his tears and Gogo and the Dunce went back to work with their hoes, quite convinced that man-power was better than chicken power.
